MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term returns consisting primarily of interest income and moderate capital growth. The Fund invests in investment-grade fixed-income securities issued by Canadian corporations and may hold similar securities of U.S. corporations.

The Fund uses a disciplined approach to assess opportunities based on the overall direction of interest rates, expected changes in interest rate spreads, changes in individual credit ratings or quality perceptions, foreign currency risk and corporate bond risk premium and rate change. The Fund may invest up to 30% of its assets in foreign securities. No more than 20% of the Fund's market value may be invested in securities rated below BBB(-) by DBRS Ltd. or its equivalent.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $1.5 billion as of December 31, 2025, from $1.3 billion at the end of 2024. The increase was due to a combination of net inflows and investment returns.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series F units gained 4.3%, which underperformed the 4.5% rise in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

Canadian corporate bonds recorded gains in 2025 as the Bank of Canada (the "BOC") lowered short-term interest rates and corporate fixed-income securities benefited from yields that were attractive relative to those on federal securities. The BOC's rate cuts and lingering concern about inflation caused the yield curve to steepen, meaning that yields demanded by investors to invest in longer-term Government of Canada bonds climbed relative to those on shorter-term bonds. As a result, corporate bonds with maturities of up to 10 years outperformed those whose maturities exceeded that time frame. Investor demand for income resulted in solid returns from issuers with lower credit ratings and higher yields – telecommunications and real estate companies – and higher-rated financial companies, which offered relatively attractive yields. Bonds issued by infrastructure operators underperformed, as they tend to offer lower yields due to their perceived lower default risk and their outstanding debt tends to be concentrated in longer-term bonds.

The Fund's performance benefited from overweight exposure to telecommunications companies, energy pipelines and real estate investment trusts, as well as other low-rated BBB bonds. Returns were also boosted by allocations to preferred shares. Returns were bolstered by profits on sales of long-dated telecommunications bonds as companies in the industry bought back debt to shore up their balance sheets.

The portfolio manager reduced the Fund's exposure to riskier securities over the second half of 2025, after gains earlier in the year diminished their potential for continuing to deliver outsized returns. Government bonds were held over the course of the year to manage interest-rate sensitivity relative to the benchmark.

Recent Developments

The macroeconomic environment is characterized by inflation that in key respects remains above the BOC's 2% target, as well as by a softer labour market and a slow-growing economy weakened by uncertainty over U.S. tariffs. Lower interest rates, strong earnings and stable credit metrics such as adequate interest coverage and low default rates continue to support corporate-bond valuations.

On the negative side, the excess yield earned on corporate bonds over like-maturity federal bonds was near its lowest in 15 years at the end of 2025, with maturities past 10 years deemed the most expensive, in the view of the portfolio manager. The total potential return available on bonds, known as the yield to maturity, remains relatively attractive for investors even as it has fallen to levels last seen in early 2022. The portfolio manager believes the BOC will keep short-term interest rates where they are for the foreseeable future as it evaluates the strength of the economy, employment and inflation. Meanwhile, government spending will be needed to offset the negative impact of immigration cutbacks and overall economic malaise.

Effective January 1, 2026, Brenda Eaton was appointed as Chair of the Independent Review Committee (the "IRC") following the retirement of Suromitra Sanatani, who has served as a dedicated member of the IRC since 2017. Effective January 1, 2026, Geoffrey D. Creighton was appointed as a new member of the IRC.

[1] The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on the direct expenses charged to the Fund and the Fund's proportionate share of the expenses of underlying funds, if any, for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

[2] The Fund's portfolio turnover rate gives an indication of the level of activity employed by the portfolio manager. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the year. The higher the Fund's portfolio turnover rate in a year, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of the Fund. The portfolio turnover rate is not applicable to money market funds.

[3] The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs of the Fund and the Fund's proportionate share of such costs of underlying funds expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period. The trading expense ratio is not applicable to fixed-income transactions.

[4] From July 18, 2022.

Effective June 29, 2022, the administration fees for Series O units were reduced to 0.02% from 0.03%. If the changes to the administration fees would have been in effect throughout the financial year ended December 31, 2022, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series O – 0.02%.

Management Fees and Administration Fees

Management fees and administration fees of each series of the Fund are payable to RBC GAM and calculated at the following annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The management fee, breakdown of services received in consideration of the management fee, as a percentage of the management fee, and the administration fee for each series are as follows:

	Management Fees	Breakdown of Services		Administration Fees
		Distribution	Other*
Series A	0.90%	56%	44%	0.05%
Series D	0.55%	27%	73%	0.05%
Series F	0.40%	–	100%	0.05%
Series O	n/a	n/a	n/a	0.02%

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

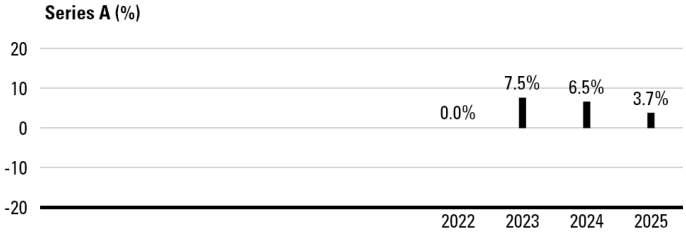

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

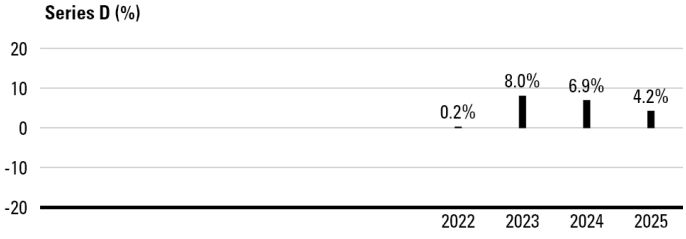

PAST PERFORMANCE

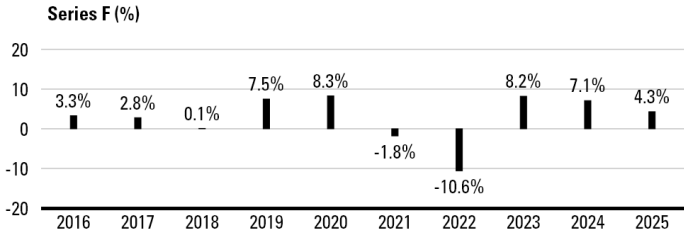

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

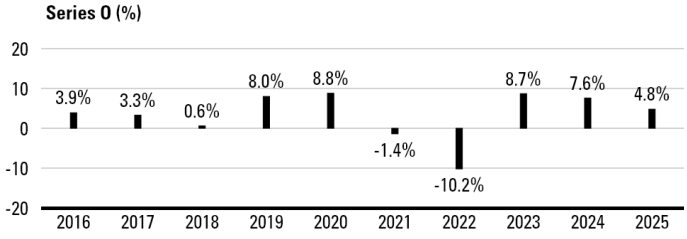

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

Annual Compound Returns (%)

The table shows the annual compound returns for each series of the Fund and for each of the periods indicated ended on December 31, 2025, compared with the following benchmark:
